Tennis racket sensor with app for technology analysis of games

I am looking for investors to develop the product to be ready for series production and for marketing in the field of technology analysis of tennis players with the help of a sensor and evaluation via a smart phone app. Both the beginner and the professional are considered as potential customers.

The sensor is attached to the wrist or in the handle of the tennis racket and measures the player's movements. An app evaluates the data.

So far, such applications do not yet exist to buy on the market.

The capital requirement is approximately €500,000.

Cooperation is possible.
