Look for Corporate financing, investor Phone dating

Investor wanted:-dating flirts always. Even though investors sometimes find it difficult to deal with the topic of dating: According to an article in the founding scene, which in turn refers to Statista, the number of users of online dating exchanges rose from about 10 million memberships in 2003 to 108 million in . Nevertheless, another article of the founding scene comes to the conclusion that there are not yet developed market segments with interesting opportunities.

Our client analysed a company established in the USA and Canada in the market segment of dating and further developed the business model for the European and international market. On an interactive platform controlled by the callers with biometric voice recognition, men and women will send online messages and conduct live ate daily and around the clock.

The exact business model is presented in detail in a business plan against the filing of a confidentiality declaration.
