Small and medium-sized enterprises consulting, tax advice and auditing

My reasons are the observation that my clientele needs less and less only the standard services of a tax consultant or auditor, but rather support in his strategies, structures and processes in order to be prepared for the future. That is why we must create today what will ensure or increase success tomorrow.

And this applies not only to tax issues, such as one, due to the audit priorities of the financial administration, and more and more optimization of data and documentation, both in terms of structures and processes, but also in terms of contracts, agreements and contracts. Business.

In addition, however, other very important questions have to be asked for future success, decisions to be made and organised: If my business model is future-proof, especially with regard to the developments of the Internet, Industry 4.
