Welding technology

The high-quality welding technology company, headquartered in Baden-Württemberg, has been in existence for more than 25 years and is well established on the market. It is active as a welding service provider in the areas of contract welding and welding assemblies, development/trials and consulting. Currently, a new welding method (Prisma-MIG/Laser plasma job welding) is about to be used, which then has a considerable unique selling point. The specialist company operates for many well-known large industrial companies with demanding welding tasks.

The company, with its machine equipment and facilities that make it possible to produce a particularly rational way of manufacturing, is to be handed over for reasons of age. Thanks to its expertise in the field of innovative welding technology, the company has developed a long-standing Customer base.
