Look for Corporate follow-up, firm follow-up, follow-up Metalworking

In the course of a professional reorientation, I am looking for a small company to take over.
To my person:

It all started with an apprenticeship as a mechatronic technician, after which I worked in toolmaking. In the period during and after my apprenticeship, I was lucky that my remit was very varied and so I was able to recognize and apply many different activities. From assembly work to CNC milling and much more.

After that, I trained as a state-certified mechanical engineer. My first job as a technician was in construction for the automotive sector. In the meantime, I am a design manager in a medium-sized machinery and plant engineering company.

Now I am looking for new challenges and I want to make myself a reality. To do this, I am looking for a company that can be taken over for reasons of age.
