Look for Corporate sales, firm sales, sales ECommerce or service

I am looking for a business in the field of online retail or also a trade in which you can get involved as a cross-beginner. I don't want to take over a trade to make a lot of money in the first place with little work. That has often jumped too short.

It would be my first independence, which I would prefer to start part-time and develop continuously, so I ask for patience and understanding in initiating, financing, etc.

From the background I am a learned "EDVler," I have worked a lot with customers from the industry and their requirements in my previous employment relationships and thus acquired a thick coat against allegedly excessive demands from customers. Because, in most cases, there is also a real need behind such demands. As a cross-entrant, I would first have to work hard, so a training during the handover phase would be desirable.
