You want to sell your company and are looking for a successor to continue your business and take over your employees?

I would be happy to be your contact person here. As managing director of a medium-sized and family-run company with headquarters and locations in Germany, I am looking for an electrical installation company at other locations in Germany to succeed him.

I myself am a master electrical engineer and the main area of my company's tasks is the electrical installation of large-scale projects.

If you see your company in this work and at best have 10-20 employees, ideally also master craftsmen, please contact me.

I assure you that your employees will be taken over, as well as the joint development of a takeover plan.

I will be happy to answer your questions by phone or in person and look forward to hearing from you.
