

The big business marketplace

Business for sale more than 15 years

ID 24491

Offer Commercial objects, Commercial properties

Precision engineering

The company to be sold has made a name for itself in the precision technology market for many years. Today, the company manufactures innovative components and assemblies for its regular customers in medical technology, automation and control technology, aerospace and laser technology. The company is focused on the top segment of the market, in which there are far above-average requirements in terms of accuracy, complexity, lightweight construction and quality.

Production takes place on very high-quality machines from well-known German manufacturers at two locations in northern Germany with a high degree of automation. Since there have been no expansion options at the current locations for quite some time, the company has moved to a new location near the current headquarters. In addition to the possibility of further volume growth, this offers additional opportunities for process optimization.

Commercial objects

Region 21, Germany

Entry on behalf

More informations and contact

www.biz-trade.eu/ma-24491.htm