. It's an investment of around €150,000. You can also start smaller, which will make growth slower. I offer a service that about 60% of people will use. This service is not yet offered and will hopefully be a sure-fire success after a start-up phase. The goal is to open the first store this year and the second at the end of the year. Maybe sooner, depending on how things go. We will first rent the top location and then later fill the 1b and 2a locations with franchise partners. I'm guessing the costs for the franchisee will be around €30,000 per store. Completely furnished and ready for use. More stores are to be opened, which will be financed from the profits of the first stores. The investments should be completely paid off after about a year. The income will be approximately 300% above the average salary. Additional luxury stores will cost approximately 50,000. The rents will be around €1,500 - €2,000 in 1A locations, €800 - €1,500 in 2a and 1b locations. 100 franchise stores are planned over the next 10 years. Which guarantees a passive income of several thousand euros per month. It will be a one-time investment. The partners bill 50/50. Profits are reinvested in the first 2 years. So it should be someone who wants to invest the €75,000 in the long term. From the third year onwards, profits will be paid out proportionately or the franchise income will be paid out in full. You should not forget that the franchise income also has to be used to pay staff and of course everything is taxed. Sometimes investing is better than cashing out. But this can all be discussed if the worst comes to the worst. We are looking for a passive or active business partner. A head office is moved into with the first franchise partner. An inspector is hired for every 30 stores to ensure that our specifications are carried out. Sales will be reported to the head office daily and the controller will check weekly. From the 10th store onwards, a media expert is hired to manage the website and plan and carry out active merchandising.
