Offer Shell companies, Shelf company without operating Software Development, Internet Video, Consulting, Trade

Currently, the company is only marginally entrepreneurial. No customer or other business relationships can be taken over. Therefore, the company only serves the quick and easy establishment of a stock corporation with a good credit rating (Crefo < 300).

The stock corporation is a subsidiary of a reputable consulting institute and is not listed on the stock exchange.

The division to be sold was already abandoned in during the financial crisis, but the stock corporation was used for consulting outside the core business.

After the crisis, the company is to be sold in order to concentrate only on its core competencies.

- The joint-stock company no longer has any assets and no office equipment.
- Upon handover, there will be no more employment contracts.
- There are no long-term contracts or will be continued by the parent company.
