Look for Corporate sales, firm sales, sales Electrician

Successful medium-sized company with an excellent reputation and very good employee rating is looking for an electrician company for a 100% takeover in the course of a company expansion.

In order to expand regionally and in terms of personnel, an electrician company is being sought for 100% takeover. The job profile should correspond to that of a classic electrician/fitter, additional services may be just as interesting. However, it should not be a specialized company in niche industries (e.g. pure control cabinet construction or just ventilation technology).

A takeover of the workforce and, after consultation, also of the previous management (into an employment relationship) is expressly desired. In the future, office and administrative activities will be taken over by the company headquarters.

You must have your own customer base. It does not matter whether this consists mainly of commercial, private or mixed customers.
