Tutoring institute

We are a young company, led by an experienced manager in the field of education.

A strong business model has emerged from a clear observation: The classic tutoring market is a billion-dollar market – but in its current form it is increasingly reaching its limits. This is exactly what is now creating a rare entrepreneurial opportunity.

Under scientific and psychological support with experts, we have developed a method that is effective, practical and scalable. A concept with the potential to fundamentally change the tutoring market in the coming years.

The interest is there: press awards, media presence and a highly relevant future market form the basis. Now it's time for the next step: growth with the right partner.
