Engineering office for waste prevention and material flow management

Medium-sized investor group (DACH) is building a platform of environmentally oriented infrastructure engineering offices and laboratories. Five companies integrated in the first year, currently over 200 employees.

For the area of waste prevention, material flow management and substitution consulting, we are looking for an established engineering or planning office with a focus on circular economy with technical depth and a resilient order book. Relevant services: Material flow analyses, lifecycle assessment (LCA), reusable system design, packaging optimisation, substitution advice and zero-waste concepts for industry and municipalities.

Family capital without exit pressure, long-term horizon. Succession, partial sale with owner participation or complete sale possible. Regional roots and professional identity will be retained.
