Would you like to hand over your company to good hands?

If you are thinking about giving up your company in the coming years and value continuity, reliability and a respectful approach to your life's work, I look forward to an exchange.

I am looking for an established small to medium-sized company to take over and continue in the long term.

My background lies in management positions with international responsibility â€“ strategically and operationally, but always close to day-to-day business. It's important to me to understand what already exists before I change things.

For me, the focus is not on a quick purchase, but on a viable succession solution that suits everyone involved â€“ especially for you, your employees and your customers.
