Travel agency

The rice office, which has been in existence since 1990, is cost-effective for reasons of age. The travel agency is known for its good service and proximity to its customers. The new business owner receives a fixed customer base of approximately 1,000 recurring customers, who provide the basis for the continuation. There are private customer parking spaces directly on the farm. The top location offers enormous opportunities for customer expansion. The company employs the owner and two assistants. There are co-op contracts with almost all major travel providers that can be taken over gladly. The company is ideal for a start-up with industry experience.

Commission-free for prospective buyers.
